“But At Your Word”

Luke 5:5

God's Inconvenient Requests

- 1. His requests were disruptive (Lk. 5:3).
- 2. His requests seemed pointless (v. 4).

A Disciple's Trusting Response

- 1. His requests were disruptive (Lk. 5:3).
- 2. His requests seemed pointless (v. 4).

We must prioritize God's will over our schedule

Obeying God is never pointless

God's will should trump our doubt or presumption

An Assuring Reward

- The reward was disproportionately grand (Lk. 5:6-7).
- Only God can give such a reward (v. 8).
